Happy Sunday everyone!

We didn't ride yesterday (but the wet, rainy weather reminded me that our new riders could use some good feedback (in advance) about riding in wet weather. However, before I share the wet weather tips, here is some feedback from a good friend who rides with the Schlanberger Team. This is the group that has overlapped with parts of our route at the two beginner rides and they were up a little to our north in Walker County yesterday. This is a very safe and very experienced group and here is what they posted on Facebook yesterday--

Both of us ride in the rain substituting with a crash on a nasty set of gravel and wet tracks. Both Gerry and I went down but fortunately suffered nothing worse than some minor bike damage, some road rash and two busted helmets. Thank God for helmets.
